New Holiday

Life Insurance

Britain in Middle

A Florida man, Dallas Hostetter by name, has come up with a sar-donic idea.

Mr. Hostetter, who represents the Florida Retailers association, has just figured out that from the beginning of the year to April 28 the average American has been working to pay his taxes but on April 28 he begins to keep his earnings for himself.

So Mr. Hostetter thinks it would be a swell idea to establish a new national holiday April 28, calling it "Tax Freedom Day."

Very funny, of course.

But it leads the Wall Street Journal to say that if the idea were adopted, "we might have some hopes of pushing the celebration back some where within shooting distance of New Year's Day."

But writing your congressman about that kind of disinflation would only fill him full of disinclination.

One of the paradoxes of our great and wonderful country is that the same Americans who growl about compulsory payroll deductions for Social Security and first one thing and another — these same Americans go out voluntarily and buy more life insurance.

New York reports life insurance sales in the United States for March were 18 per cent greater than a year ago, and 17 per cent above March 1947.

It makes a difference whether you do something by compulsion or persuasion. Persuasion and salesmanship have gotten America further than state socialism got any nation by compulsion.

Exciting — those stories about the British river fleet being chased down the Yangtze by Chinese Reds' artillery fire.

The river is blockaded, British has caught in a trap, ships, several sailors dead and a lot wounded — and an angry mob back in England nearly lynched a prominent Communist because of the Yangtze incident.

Yet the British have any place to go to get indemnity. The Nationalists, official government of China, are broke; the Communists are technically nothing but bandits recognized by no country, not even Russia, supposedly their secret backer.

So the British were up the Yangtze — or, as we Americans would say, up the well known creek without a paddle.

Arkansas News

Little Rock, April 23 — (AP) — Twenty-two postoffices in existence when Arkansas became a state in 1836, still are in operation.

C. C. Bellville, superintendent of the division of the Little Rock postoffice, so told Arkansas postmasters at their convention here yesterday.

The first two postoffices established in Arkansas territory, both in 1817, no longer exist. Bellville said. The first was at Davidson's Bluff in Randolph county the second was at Arkansas Post, Desha county.

Postoffices that were in existence in 1836 and still operating are: Batesville, Benton, Can Hill, Clinton, Conway, Dardanelle, Des Arc, Eagleton, Fayetteville, Fort Smith, Grand Lake, Helena, Hot Springs, Lee's Creek, Little Rock, Malvern, Moberly, Pine Bluff, Potosi, Strawberry, Sulphur Rock and Van Buren.

Little Rock, April 23 — (AP) — Forest fires no longer are an immediate threat in North Arkansas today.

Forestry officials said that by persistent battling for more than a week, fire fighting crews have brought the blazes under control.

They were helped by continued "greening" of the forests, making them more fire resistant.

Thousands of acres in North Arkansas and Southern Missouri were burned over before the situation eased.

Health Program Opposition Mounting

Washington, April 23 — (AP) — President Truman's national health insurance program to provide medical aid hospital care for millions of Americans faces rough and slow going in congress.

But some critics of that plan predicted that the general idea contained in the rest of Mr. Truman's far-reaching health program probably will be translated into law after a thorough-going study.

Besides the national insurance plan, the program the president sent to congress yesterday calls for:

(1) Special financial aid to help medical schools expand (2) increased aid for construction of hospitals and other medical facilities (3) more money for the public health preventive and disease control services.

Mr. Truman has called for a system of pre-paid insurance many times before, and the general reaction for and against the plan followed pretty much the same pattern this time.

Critics said it would lead to socialized and nationalized medicine. Friends of the plan contended it is the only way to provide adequate medical and hospital care for all.

The administration is expected to send a bill covering the whole program to the capitol Monday.

Persons familiar with it said the program would work this way:

Wage earners and salaried workers generally would be taxed about 1 1/2 per cent of their income up to $4,000 a year. Employers would have to match that amount.

Hence, a worker making $4,000 a year would have $72 a year deducted from his pay. His employer would be taxed an equal amount.

A worker who made only $2,400 a year would be taxed only half as much — $36 a year. The employer's contribution would be halved, too.

The self-employed would have to pay the entire tax about 3 per cent on the first $4,000 of income. While only the breadwinners of a family would be taxed, the insurance protection would apply to every member of the family.

Social security officials who drafted the program estimated the cost of the insurance feature at between $4,500,000,000 and $6,000,000,000 a year.

The tax system would operate like the present social security program, with contributions paid on the first $3,000 of annual income, split between workers and employers.

Mr. Truman has proposed boosting the social security tax to a total of three per cent and has offered other plans for disability benefits and the like.

Social Security Commissioner Arthur J. Altmeyer said all these proposals would cost up to $17,500,000 a year, with a payroll tax of 12 to 15 per cent.

Even though the senate probably will not get the bill before the latter part of June, Senator Murray (D-Mont) said he is optimistic about the chances for congressional action during this session. The action during this session, The senator said, the lawmakers may stay on or come back for a special session.

However, Senators Taft (R-Ohio) and Smith (R-Ill.) sponsors of an aid-to-states substitute for the administration bill, said it is practically certain that congress won't get around to final action on a general health program until next year.

Senator Elbert D. Thomas (D-Utah), chairman of the full senate labor and public welfare committee, has said he sees only a slight chance for action this year.

Art Exhibit to Show at McCaskill

The oil painting section of the traveling exhibit of the Fourth Annual Exhibition of Arkansas Artists will be in McCaskill from April 23 to 25.

Mrs. Helen Battiste, a hobby artist of McCaskill, has a painting, "October Rain in the Potholes of Hempstead" — traveling with this exhibit.

The exhibit opens April 23, and shows through April 25 at the McCaskill school. The light of the week will be Tuesday night, April 26, at which time the Art exhibit will be presented in connection with fine arts program of the students of the McCaskill school. There has been an art contest within the local school and all entries will be on display; the out-of-town judges will have the judging completed prior to the night's program. The doors will be open at 6:30 p. m. and the program will begin at 8 o'clock. This will be the only night showing; the exhibit may be viewed at any time during school hours during the rest of the week.

The public is invited. A special invitation goes to all school children, garden club members, and P. T. A. members. The admission for the program Tuesday night will be 15 and 30 cents. Any proceeds over the above actual expenses will be used to purchase original Arkansas Art pictures for the McCaskill school building.

Woman, Irked By Husband Drowns Baby

Blackstone, Mass., April 23 — (UP) — The body of an 18-month-old baby was recovered today from Harris pond where his mother tossed him because her husband threatened to leave her.

The body of Richard Desrosier of North Smithfield, R. I., was pulled from a tangle of underwater brush where his 20-year-old mother Cecilia said she threw him yesterday.

It was brought to the surface by Policeman Edgar Celinas and two state troopers an hour and a half after dragging operations resumed. Death apparently was due to drowning.

The mother was taken to Whit insville district court for arraignment on a charge of suspicion of murder.

Dry eyed, the mother had confessed the crime following a quarrel with her husband.

"I drowned him," the young mother told a startled policeman at the Woonsocket, R. I., station yesterday. "What else could I do?"

Then, exhibiting bruises on her leg, she told that she and her unemployed husband George, 32, had quarreled and that he threatened to leave her.

"I had to do something, I couldn't get work and take care of my baby," she was quoted as saying.

Led by Police Chief Emilee Lesage of Blackstone, state police and volunteers went to the shore of Harris pond. On the bank they found a baby carriage and the woman pointed to the spot where she said she had hurled the child.

During the dragging operations, which included the removal of two huge oak trees that had tipped into the water, police found a nursing bottle of milk, a baby's coat, hat and underclothing. They believed the body lay on about 20 feet of water near shore but were forced to halt dragging operations by unfavorable rains.

During questioning Mrs. Desrosier was confronted by her husband who bewilderedly demanded: "What did you have to take it out on the kid for?"

"I hope you're satisfied," the woman retorted. "You never wanted to stay home and take care of the kid."

In her confession, Mrs. Desrosier said:

"I took the baby up in my arms. I took off his coat, counted three and then threw him in."

After signing a confession, Mrs. Desrosier was taken to the Worcester City jail under care of a matron. The husband was permitted to leave.

Most of Nation Enjoying Mild Temperatures

Chicago, April 23 — (AP) — Fair weather and mild temperatures were general over most parts of the country today.

The mercury soared above the 100 degree mark yesterday for the first time this year. The hot weather was in the desert region of Southern California, Arizona, Idaho, Calif., had the day's high, 104. At Yuma, Ariz., the mercury touched 109 and it was 106 at Phoenix.

The spots today included the New England states but skies were expected to clear later today. Some light rain also fell along the Washington coast and in southern Texas.

First Negro to Enter University of Arkansas, Dies

Springfield, Mo., April 23 — (AP) — The first Negro to attend the University of Arkansas died at a Veterans hospital here yesterday.

Silas H. Hunt of Texarkana came ill while a student at the university's law school at Fayetteville.

He entered the school in mid-term 1948 after university trustees ruled that qualified Negroes could be admitted for graduate instruction if they could not receive it elsewhere in the state.

British Lawyer Gives Red Meet Verbal Spanking

Paris, April 23 — (AP) — War news from China brought delegates to their feet for two minutes of wild cheering today at the Communist world congress for peace.

They did it in spite of a verbal spanking from a British lawyer Harvey Moore, who told them they could not be for peace and still support Chinese Communists in the war in China.

British historian J. G. Crowther, the day's chairman, dramatically announced, after Moore's speech: "We have just learned that the Democratic Chinese forces have entirely liberated Nanking."

Then Crowther led the 1,000 delegates in three "hip-hip-burrrays" and the wildest cheering of the congress meeting to date.

Moore, 57, shocked the delegates with his speech, the first one so far at this congress which called for an end to a war in progress. The delegates sat stunned as he cried:

"Do not deceive yourselves, you cannot be for peace (in China) and peace, at the same time (in China) and 'Proletarian bureaucrats, as well as bourgeois bureaucrats will have to learn that people want freedom of the individual, freedom of speech, freedom of elections and freedom to change their government if they want to.'"

"The delegates made no sound. 'Where are the cheers?' asked Moore.

He finally got a little applause by this urging. Moore, a king's counsel and representative of the international organization of Democratic lawyers, started his speech by saying:

"Anytime, American, Russian or Bulgarian, who would have anything to do with dropping an atomic bomb on his fellow man is a mad."

"I got no reaction. 'Why don't you cheer?' he asked.

"There has been too much stirring up of hate at this conference," said Moore. "No wonder Picasso looks so sad."

B. Porterfield Dies at Home in Patmos

Berry Porterfield, aged 53, a native of Hempstead County, died at his home at Patmos this morning.

He is also survived by a brother, Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Sunday at New Hope by the Rev. D. O. Sivey and the Rev. Howard White. Burial will be in Macedonia.

West Memphis

West Memphis, April 20 (AP) — Mayor P. M. Dacus said tonight he was against a proposal to move radio station KTHS from Hot Springs to West Memphis.

"I feel that it is an Arkansas station," he said. "It wouldn't cover Arkansas from here but Mississippi and Tennessee."

Its Dollars to Doughnuts More Doughnuts Than Dollars Were Made in Pyramid Craze

By HAL BOYLE

New York, April 23 — If you didn't make much dough out of the Pyramid Club craze, don't feel lonesome.

It's dollars to doughnuts that more people got doughnuts than dollars out of these get-rich-quick enterprises.

Because of most of the parties launching Pyramid clubs was at least got a doughnut and a cup of coffee. It is another matter how many people, for the $1 they plunked down, got back twelve days later the $3,000 they hoped for.

For very, very few seem to have worked their way to the top of the pyramid — people being what they are, and dollars being what they are.

But the doughnut industry did well indeed. It is still doing well in areas just being infected by this modified version of the 1935 "chain letter" epidemic.

To check on this point I phoned a spokesman for the doughnut industry.

"Is this Mr. Sugarman calling?" asked his telephone girl.

Honest she did. And I had to curb a sudden mad desire to forget all about Pyramid Clubs and try to learn what connection any one named Mr. Sugarman had with the doughnut empire. But just then I got switched to the spokesman himself.

"Have the Pyramid Clubs affected the sale of doughnuts?" he chirped happily. "Why, wherever the craze hits it doubles the doughnut business. It takes a week or ten days in most places, and the sale of doughnuts goes up a hundred per cent.

Producers in Debt Urged to Market Cotton

Little Rock, April 23 — (AP) — Arkansas producers who owe the government money on their 1948 cotton crop have been urged to consider marketing the crop before the July 31 maturity date. The suggestion was offered by C. C. Wiley, chairman of the state committee of the production and marketing administration.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture announced that the crop remaining in loan Aug. 1 will be pooled and sold for the producers' accounts. Growers of their may sell their equity in the loan cotton or redeem it from loan and sell it in the open market.

On March 11, 4,400,000 bales of standing on about 1,000,000 bales of 1948 cotton in Arkansas, Wiley said.

Test Made to Determine Murder Gun

Atlanta, April 23 — (UP) — Atlanta's crime doctor, Dr. Herman Jones, arrived here today with a bullet from the gun of an ex-convict held in Clinton, S. C., and prepared to make a microscopic test to determine if it is the weapon which killed Metropolitan Opera Tenor John Garbis here early Thursday morning.

The man held in Clinton has been identified as Grover Pulley, 44.

Dr. Jones said that "we can't say yet whether Pulley is involved in the Garbis slaying. We will have to compare bullets first."

"He may or may not be the man we are looking for," Jones said. He revealed, however, that the gun found in Pulley's automobile was a 9-millimeter automatic of Belgian make.

Garris was killed with a 9-millimeter slug similar to those used in Pulley's slaying, Jones said. Earlier, Atlanta authorities had said the death slug came from a .38-caliber pistol — almost exactly the same size as a 9-millimeter bullet.

Atlanta authorities were understood to consider the Clinton angle their "hottest lead yet."

Jones fired a bullet from Pulley's pistol in Clinton early this morning and then left immediately to drive back here to make a microscopic comparison of that slug with the one which brought death to the opera tenor.

Police said Jones told them he was not yet ready to make a definite conclusion "before he went to bed today."

At 6 a. m. (EST), an assistant of Jones in Atlanta said the crime had not yet arrived from Clinton, microscope comparison of the two bullets here would be necessary before any definite announcement could be made, the assistant said.

At the same time, in Clinton, police said they had yet heard from Jones, who had promised to notify them of the results of his test immediately. They said they were still holding Pulley.

Snoring Results

Allies Trying to Sell Balking German Leaders

Washington, April 23 — (AP) — The United States, Britain and France held out an offer of broader self-governing powers to the West German leaders today in an urgent effort to get a federal state started in the former enemy country.

With a possible cold war victory for Russia hanging on the outcome, the United States rushed its top trouble shooter on German affairs, Ambassador Robert D. Murphy, overseas to sell the compromise proposal to balking leaders of the German social democratic party.

The powerful Socialists had claimed that the original three power plan for a German state in the Western occupation zones could impose too great a limit on the proposed government, especially in financial matters.

The new concessions are aimed at meeting some of the Socialists' demands which have blocked approval of the plan by the German parliamentary council working a Bonn on the draft of a constitution for the new state.

The first reaction to the proposals was not entirely favorable. A German rejection of the self-governing plan would be regarded as a hard blow to the west in its struggle with Soviet Russia to keep Germany from Communist control.

French Foreign Minister Schuman said in Paris yesterday that it might somehow be possible to have a Western German state and an Eastern German state "under the same hat," but he didn't say how.

Avery Retains Montgomery Ward Hold

Avery, who assumed the role of a director of the retail chain, chandising firm when nominations closed without anyone being put up in opposition to him. Actual counting of votes will take an hour or more.

Directors were scheduled to meet later today. He is the only director who is active in the day-to-day management of the company.

Avery is chief executive officer of Ward's.

Several hundred stockholders attended the meeting, which had been aroused greater than normal interest because of wholesale top management resignations from the company. The largest holder of Ward's stock, Massachusetts Investors Trust, refused to vote for Avery.

In addition to Avery the men placed in nomination for directors, all as part of re-election, were Philip R. Clark, president of the City National Bank and Trust company of Chicago.

Donald R. McLennan, Jr., vice president of Marsh and McLennan, Incorporated, Chicago Insurance brokers.

The term of McLennan expires in 1950. That of the others in 1952. All have been directors previously and all are known to be friendly to Avery.

Enhanced against recent resignations in the company, the consideration by many as an unfavorable item for Avery, was the fact that under Avery this second largest retail merchandising firm in the country has made an excellent financial record.

Since last summer Ward's has lost a president and nine vice-presidents in the past two weeks. In addition, the board of directors, members of the New York banking firm of P. P. Morgan and Company, resigned.

Israel's Choice

Aubrey S. Eban, present Israeli representative to the UN, is expected to take his place as head of the official Jewish state delegation when Israel is admitted as the 59th member of the UN General Assembly in Lake Success, N. Y.

Law and Order Doesn't Exist in Nanking

(Editor's note: Law and order have ceased to exist in Nanking, abandoned by Nationalist forces and waiting for the entry of Communist troops. In the following dispatch, United Press Correspondent Chang Kuo-sun describes the situation as the city waits for the Communists to march in.)

By CHANG KUO-SUN

Nanking, April 23 — (UP) — Nanking entered a state of anarchy today as the city waited for the entry of Communist troops scheduled for tomorrow morning.

Water and electric services have stopped. Waves of looters still are sweeping through the streets after a full day of pillaging. It has now reached the stage where looters are looting other looters.

It is a field day for the poor. Might is right. Running cars in the streets are being looted. Bicycles, cycle riders, pulled down and their vehicles taken away.

Nanking's residents are furious because Nationalist police have been withdrawn. The police are here, but they have been demobilized. I met several in the streets and asked them "where are the police?" They said they didn't know.

The general police office was looted during the day. Acting president Li Tsung-jen's residence also was stripped of everything that could be removed.

"I cannot stop them," she said when asked why she helped. "So the sooner they clean out the place the better it is for me. Then I will have peace."

The Nationalist retreat came suddenly, like thunder out of a clear sky. It hit Nanking completely by surprise.

The populace went to bed in night clothing. The Nanking would stand for some time. When they awoke they found only rear guard units of the 45th army here. They were covering the Nationalist withdrawal and joining in the general withdrawal of the army.

At one p. m. the air force abandoned the field and the city then was completely cut off from the outside world.

All public service organizations have ceased functioning except the postal and telegraphic offices. Representative officials in these offices said they would stay over.

Telegraph and telephone communications are operating without disruption. Emergency generators are supplying power to maintain radio and electric service.

Clouds of dust hang over the main business district as I write. The streets are a shambles of broken glass and debris. The half-starved mob is looking first of all for rice and flour, but meanwhile are taking everything else they can lay their hands on.

I do not know how much longer I will be able to report from Nanking. Soon I will try to leave for Shanghai by jeep, but the highway is held by Communist troops and I do not know if I will be able to get through.

Foreign diplomatic missions so far have shown no signs of leaving Nanking by jeep, but the highway is held by Communist troops and I do not know if I will be able to get through.

Nationalists Destroy Station, Leave Nanking

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

Nanking, April 23 — (AP) — The Chinese government abandoned Nanking today, and departing Nationalists blew up the big railway station just outside the undefended walls of the capital.

All along the Yangtze, demoralized government troops gave way before the Red assault that breached the great river barrier. Four Nationalist armies, total probably 100,000 men, retreated southward. They left Nanking's waterfront in flames and the city unprotected from the fury of looting mobs.

Negotiations for turning the city over to the Communists already were reported under way. Gen. Ma Ching-shan, chairman of the Nanking "emergency" peace preservation committee, had said earlier he had made contact with the Reds for this purpose.

Soon the Reds would take over not only Nanking, but they knew. There was only one thing they had not yet chosen to do it.

The Communist 35th and 37th armies, about 40,000 strong — faced the city today

Third Son Is Arrested in Lonely Hearts Murders

Dover, Del., April 20 (AP) — The third son of Mrs. Inez Brennan was arrested today in connection with Delaware's "lonely hearts" slayings as workmen began digging up parts of her 20-acre farm where state police say she had admitted burying two victims.

George Brennan, 19, was arrested at Landlord, (Tex.) Air Force base at the request of Homer Garrison, chief of the Texas Department of Public Safety. Col. Herbert Barnes, Delaware State police head, said George has been charged with being an accessory to murder.

Mrs. Brennan and another son, 15-year-old Robert, have been charged with being an accessory. Barnes said New Hampshire police could file charges in the death of Hugo Schuch, 60, Epson, N. H.

The Delaware state police head said Mrs. Brennan, and Raymond have signed statements telling how Robert shot Woodbridge at his mother's order; Mrs. Brennan killed Schuch.

Smart Comedy Is 'Letter to Three Wives'

The Hollywood grapevine has been buzzing for months about an hilarious new comedy which is said to be one of the most unusual story ideas yet put on film. Entitled "A Letter to Three Wives," the twentieth Century-Fox comedy has an all-star cast with Jeanne Crain, Linda Darnell and Ann Sothern in the lead roles. They play the wives, respectively, of Jeffrey Lynn, Broadway star Paul Douglas in his first film role, and Kirk Douglas in the hit which opens Sunday at the Sanger Theatre.

The comedic action of the intricate, yet wholly entertaining story of "A Letter to Three Wives," takes place in a single day, when the three girls leave on a picnic excursion with the unsettling news that "Addie," their town's most attractive unmarried female, has left town with one of her husbands. Though "Addie" is never shown in the picture, her taunting voice rings in the ears of each wife as she starts in the film which convinced that her own husband has good reason to leave her.

Suspense and sympathy for the romantic problems in marriage builds to the picture's many laugh-packed surprises as the story unfolds. It isn't until the last 60 seconds of the picture that the answer is revealed.

Filmed in both Hollywood and New York, Director Joseph L. Mankiewicz, who also did the sparkling screen play, used such eastern locales as Mahopac, historic Cold Spring and Hook Mountain so that all outdoor scenes would be actual productions of the actual suburban setting. The unusual story, is told through flashbacks.

Barbara Lawrence, who is seen as Linda Darnell's younger sister, also starred in the film which includes Connie Gilchrist, Florence Bates and Hobart Cavanaugh. Sol C. Siegel produced the picture, which was adapted by Vera Caspary from a Cosmopolitan Magazine novel by John Klemmner.

Clint Hartung used his newly developed curve ball to subdue the Dodgers in a four-hit, 4 to 1 Giant triumph in Brooklyn in which two homers by Sid Gordon and Mickey Livingston highlighted the attack.

At Chicago, the Cubs made it two out of three over the Pirates, winning 4 to 3 when Catcher Bob Schayles hit a two-run homer in the eighth inning. Roy Kuch, who pitched one hit relief ball for two innings, was the victor.

The Braves and Phillies were not scheduled.

Yesterday's star — Steve Gromek of the Indians who missed a hit only because he served up two fifth inning home runs in an 8 to 2 victory at St. Louis.

Young Lawmaker Dies in Crash of Plane

The crackup of his P-80 shooting star was tentatively laid to a partial power failure. A thorough investigation was ordered.

Coffey, a 30-year old wartime hero and first term in congress, had landed at a field air force base to refuel. His ship rose only 25 feet, wavered and plunged into an arroyo as he took off on the final leg of a flight to March Field, Calif.

The Johnstown, Pa., flier was on a cross-country training flight, undertaken while the house was in recess. He held the rank of colonel in the air force reserve.

Ritchie, taking off behind Coffey in another P-80, was compelled to circle city for an hour. This was to use up fuel in the wing tanks, necessary before he could land.

Col. Harold O. Gunn, Kirtland field commandant, said Coffey's ship turned a series of cartwheels before it snapped a powerful pole 100 yards beyond the main portion of the shattered fuselage.

The plane did not explode or burn. A crash crew found the body of the flier wedged inside. He was killed instantly.

bins, friends of Lt. and Mrs. K. B. Brice in Antique West Indies, and Mrs. Robbins mother were Friday morning guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Hatcher and family here. They were enroute from Antique to Pine Bluff where Lt. Col. Robbins will be stationed.

Mrs. Oscar Cantrell and son, Larry of Texarkana visited Mr. and Mrs. Arvil Hickman, Thursday.

Reverend and Mrs. Otis Seal and children, Anna Elizabeth and Alton Otis of the Southwest Seminary, Fort Worth, are weekend guests of Mrs. Seal's sister, Mrs. W. A. Williams and Mr. Williams. Anna Elizabeth and Alton Otis will remain for a two weeks visit with Mr. and Mrs. Williams.

Still, Okla. — Robert W. Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Finley Ward of Hope, Arkansas is one of 11 Oklahoma A & M College students selected in the Army of the United States for regular commissions as second lieutenants.

Gromek Comes Through for Ailing Indians

By CARL LUNDQUIST
New York, April 22 — (UP) — Pitcher Steve Gromek of Cleveland has two big chores to do for two bosses and today he was off to a flying start on both.

His first and biggest job is to protect President Bill Veeck of the Indians look like a prophet. Veeck is to help ease Manager Lou Boudreau's worries over the ailing Bobby Feller.

Yesterday he made a major contribution to each cause when he pitched a remarkable two-hitter to victory over the Browns at St. Louis. The only blows were successive fifth inning homers by Jack Graham and Dick Kokos. Aside from that lapse, the one-time butcherer, Gromek, was a perfect pitcher, putting only two other men on base one on a walk and one a hit batsman.

Joe Gordon and Larry Doby hit Cleveland homers to pace a 10-hit attack, Doby getting his inside-the-park with two men on base.

Gromek, won only nine games last season but came along fast at the end of the campaign in a key World Series game against the Yankees.

When Gromek heard about that he said, "well, he's the boss and he generally gets what he asks for. I guess I really have a job cut out for me."

The job was magnified when Feller came out of opening day with a lame arm but Boudreau, who attributes Gromek's new success to a spat with Veeck, said he was a down-drift knuckle cur — believes Steve can hold the fort until Bobby gets back in shape.

At Philadelphia the Red Sox came to life just in time to give the Yankees a 5 to 4 victory, birthday, blasting four runs in the ninth to beat the Athletics, 4 to 0. Two were out and Marjoe wasn't very happy about being the Phil Marchiondo loaded.

The bases then forced in a run with a walk. Marjoe, who pitched the six-hit Boston shutout, then drilled a two run single and a walk with the bases loaded again brought in the other run.

The White Sox won their first game since May 2, against the Tigers at Detroit as Eddie Ryan, who formerly with the Class C Hot Springs Bathers with three hits, and Gus Zernial, with two, paced the attack.

Chicago remained the only unbeaten team in the National as Lefty Johnny Vander Meer made it two in a row over the Cardinals with a five-hit, 5 to 0 victory. Two run homers by Jimmy Bloodworth and Dick Sauer provided the winning punch.

Clint Hartung used his newly developed curve ball to subdue the Dodgers in a four-hit, 4 to 1 Giant triumph in Brooklyn in which two homers by Sid Gordon and Mickey Livingston highlighted the attack.

At Chicago, the Cubs made it two out of three over the Pirates, winning 4 to 3 when Catcher Bob Schayles hit a two-run homer in the eighth inning. Roy Kuch, who pitched one hit relief ball for two innings, was the victor.

The Braves and Phillies were not scheduled.

Yesterday's star — Steve Gromek of the Indians who missed a hit only because he served up two fifth inning home runs in an 8 to 2 victory at St. Louis.

State Legislative Council Headed By Sen. Trussell

Little Rock, April 20 (AP) — Senator Weems Trussell of Fordyce today was elected chairman of the Arkansas Legislative Council.

The council, recreated by the legislature with membership limited to eight members, held an organization meeting at the group named Rep. Dewitt Poe of McGehee as vice-chairman and called for applications for the post of executive director.

Trussell was nominated by Rep. James R. Campbell of Hot Springs, Governor McMath's representative on the council. His was the only nomination for chairman.

Umpbell, chairman of the old council, created by the 1947 legislature, also suggested that the chairmanship be alternated between membership of the two houses each two years.

After Poe was elected vice-chairman, the group voted to alternate both officer posts two years.

A committee composed of Trussell, Poe, Sen. Jerry Seaton, Hazen, and Reps. Carl Hendrix, Horatio, and Russell Roberts, Committee was authorized to receive applications for a research director of the council.

An attempt was made to require that the director be an Arkansas resident, but the motion was defeated.

The director is to be selected from the list of applications on file at the next meeting on June 17.

Governor McMath addressed the council briefly, asking it to study a merit system proposal for the state and county codes.

The council voted to ask the Arkansas Bar Association to name a committee to work with it in drafting a new election code bill.

HISTORY INSTRUCTOR

Conway, April 21 — (AP) — Dean Thomas S. Staples of Hendrix college's history department will retire at the end of this term.

Dr. Staples, for 25 years a member of the Hendrix history faculty, will be succeeded as dean by Dr. W. C. Buttzan, who joined the faculty in 1923.

Dr. Staples, who is 70, was born in Georgia. He attended Emory University and Columbia University.

He is the author of "Reconstruction in Arkansas, 1875-1908," co-author of "Our Land and Our People." He is recognized as an expert on civil war and reconstruction history.

DOROTHY DIX Secret Marriage

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am very much in love with a young dental student who has two more years of college ahead of him. He begs me to marry him secretly, but I don't approve of it and I know it would just about kill my parents if I did. But I love him so much and I fear that I will lose him unless I relent. Please tell me what to do?

Answer: A secret marriage may be strictly legal, but it always carries with it a smear of disgrace, and people look askance at a belated marriage certificate. There are certain conditions that civilized people have agreed upon for the protection of society, and one of these is the public marriage. It is the formal announcement that a man and woman have decided to found a family and spend the balance of their lives together, and it puts the seal of the church and the state upon an honorable union and stops all discussion of the matter.

Not so the secret wedding. That sets all the tongues in the community wagging, for, no matter how careful you are, you are sure to be discovered. Some prying eyes will spy you out. Don't degrade your own marriage by making it a sordid intrigue that is slurred over with deceptions and lies.

You say that you are afraid that you will lose this young man's love if you do not agree to marry him secretly. Believe me, you are much more likely to lose it if you do. For if his affection cannot stand the strain of waiting with the reward of getting you in the end, when he is financially able to marry you, still less will he endure the strain of a half-and-half marriage, which will have all of the disadvantages and none of the advantages of matrimony.

There is less reason now than ever before for a girl to be guilty of the folly of a secret marriage, because if the man is not financially able to support her, she should court herself. So if you and your sweetheart are so much in love that you cannot wait, married openly and honorably and go out and get a job until he can make a living for two.

But this young man refuses to take you by your guns and refuse to marry him.

Dear Dorothy Dix: What do you think of girls and women who make up their faces and comb their hair when having a meal in a restaurant? Don't you think this practice is revolting?

Answer: I certainly do, Mr. Anonymous. It is all right for women to use cosmetics and to make themselves as beautiful as they can, but surely there is a time and place for all things, and the rites of the toilet should be performed in secret, instead of being flaunted in the face of the public.

"Don't cry, Mom," George said. "I'm all right. I'll tell you all about it."

Molly was reaching for her begrimed son — dirt, coal dust, matted hair and all — but Major interrupted her with a word of warning.

"You'll tell nothing until you've had a bath," Major said. "Who's your friend?"

George introduced Hank, his roommate from school, to the laundry. "You two, to the laundry," Major said. "Turning to me, he asked what chance there was of borrowing some of Bill's clothes and letting the boys sleep in his room."

Scrubbed pink with wet hair clinging to their heads, dressed in clean clothes, they sat down to the mountain of food Molly had whipped up when they finished, they told their story.

"You knew I didn't want to go back to school, Dad," George began.

"Well, Hank and I fixed it up to run away. Shucks, if we could get someplace where we weren't known, we could enlist."

"Oh," Molly gasped, "so that's it!"

"You knew very good and well at Christmas, Mom, and I wanted to join up," George put the blame on her. "Anyway, Hank and I sold off a few things we didn't need and added that to our Christmas money and bought the clothes we had on."

In reply to Molly's exclamation, he said that the clothes were new when they started out. "And," he continued, "we struck out for a southern town, and quite a few rides, got as far as South Carolina, but it was awful slow going. We weren't going to have enough money to eat on, at that rate. One of the boys said we ought to ride the freight."

"Hobbs!...Freights!" Molly gasped.

"Sure, Mom. They're fun. We couldn't find any recruiting officer who'd accept us, so we had to keep going. We thought maybe down South they'd take us. We got to Macon and the MP's picked us up. 'Thought we were deserters. We see, he added proudly, 'we look old enough. But they let us go and then the cops stopped us. Looked like the chain gang for us."

"Oh, boy!" he reflected.

"Wouldn't-a-been, too," Hank supplied, "if we hadn't stopped off at that jungle the night before."

George patted his pocket. "This saved our hides," he said importantly.

"What?" Major asked.

"I'm coming to that," George nodded wisely. "First, I'll finish my story." Food and clean clothes had restored his confidence. "The cops took us up to court."

"Runs in your family," Robbie commented.

"The George asked could we prove we weren't vagrants — that we had a place to go. We proved it," George said, tapping his pocket. "He let us off, but we had to be out of town in an hour. The first train out was hauling manure."

"Lucky, too. It gets cold in Georgia. We burrowed into that nice warm, soft bed, and baby, did we sleep."

While he dwelt privately on the charms of a nice, warm, soft bed, Hank said, "That car was headed for Denver. We rode her the whole way."

"With nothing to eat?" Molly exclaimed.

"Sure we ate," George said. "Every time the train stopped, we sneaked out and loaded up with a sack of hamburgers. We ate but good."

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have been going with a girl for four years with respect and admire her, but I do not love her. This is my problem: She loves me, and I feel that as I have taken up so much of her time I should do the right thing by her and marry her, but I don't want to get out of this jam if I could.

Do you think I should lay the facts before her and tell her how I really feel towards her? Or should I just go on and marry her?

Answer: I think that the honorable thing for you to do is to tell your sweetheart exactly how you feel about her, and that if she is as honest as you are she will refuse to marry you. I think that no woman who has a spark of decency in her wants to marry a man who has grown tired of her and who is an unwilling bridegroom.

The man who marries a woman from a sense of duty always makes a futile sacrifice, because it does no good. It wrecks her life just as much as it does his. In giving up his happiness he does not secure hers, because no wife is happy knowing that her husband has married her upon compulsion; that his heart holds no affection for her; that she careses bore him; and that she is even physically distasteful to him.

So my advice to you is to put your cards on the table and tell your girl friend exactly how you feel about her. I am very sure that she would scorn to be made an "honest woman" at the expense of being made an unloved wife.

Dear Dorothy Dix: What do you think of girls and women who make up their faces and comb their hair when having a meal in a restaurant? Don't you think this practice is revolting?

Answer: I certainly do, Mr. Anonymous. It is all right for women to use cosmetics and to make themselves as beautiful as they can, but surely there is a time and place for all things, and the rites of the toilet should be performed in secret, instead of being flaunted in the face of the public.

New Orleans, Little Rock Rained Out

By The Associated Press

Atlanta beat Chattanooga, 9-6, and Birmingham whipped Nashville, 5-1, in the Southern Association last night.

Little Rock at New Orleans was rained out, while the Memphis at Mobile contest was postponed because of wet grounds.

The results made few changes midway of the standings. The Cracker and the Barons' win put them in a fourth-place tie. The Lookouts dropped down a notch to sixth place the Vols to fifth.

Little Rock continues to be the hottest thing in the loop with six straight victories. New Orleans is second.

The Barons staged a three-run rally in the seventh to break a 1-1 tie and go on to victory over the hapless Vols.

Catcher Manager Cliff Dapper battled in five runs to lead the Atlanta Crackers. All but one of the Crackers' 11 hits were concentrated in the first and the sixth innings.

About 9,000 fans attended the first ladies' night of the season at Atlanta.
